Why do Americans celebrate the 4th of July? Have you ever wondered what the celebration is about? The 4th of July is a very special day in America. It is the day when the United States of America was born.

The 4th of July is also called Independence Day. Independence means freedom. The day marks Independence of the United States from Britain.

Americans celebrate the 4th of July to show how much they appreciate their freedom. It is also to remember the great sacrifices of their ancestors who fought for their independence.

Independence Day was officially declared via the signing of the Declaration of Independence on July 4th, 1776.

The Declaration of Independence declared that the 3 American colonies intended to separate from Britain.

In 1870, the 4th of July became a federal holiday. In the United States, a federal holiday is a national holiday which has been recognised by the US government.

The American Flag is a symbol of freedom, liberty and human rights. The stripes represent the original 13 colonies. The stars represent the 50 states of the United States of America.

The Statue of Liberty is a great symbol of American freedom. It was given to the United States of America by France in 1886.

The Liberty Bell is a famous symbol of American independence.

The Bald Eagle symbolises the strength and freedom of America.

Today, people in all fifty US states celebrate the 4th of July by setting off fireworks, taking part in parades and having a barbeque or picnic.

Independence Day wouldn't be complete without family and friends, too. What do you do on Independence Day?
