More than 50,000 people were crammed into a mass of 500 slum buildings

In Cantonese, it was known as the City of Darkness

Dripping wet walls, the bleak glow of light through factory fumes...

Overhanging electrical wires and pipes forming a chaotic network

On upper levels was a network of staircases and passageways

Residents could travel across the city without ever touching the ground

It also housed criminals, opium parlours, warehouses and gambling dens

It was a place where police, health inspectors and even tax collectors feared to tread

many of the Kowloon Walled City's former residents remember it fondly
