General Ledger interview questions and answers - General Ledger interview questions and answers by Interview Insights 10,454 views 1 year ago 13 minutes, 51 seconds - A general ledger, is the foundation of a system employed by accountants to store and organize financial data used to create the ...

Q What is the purpose of a General Ledger? Ans In accounting, a general ledger is used to record all of a company's transactions. Within a general ledger, transactional data is organized into assets, liabilities, revenues, expenses, and owner's equity. After each sub-ledger has been closed out, the accountant prepares the trial balance. This data from the trial balance is then used to create the company's financial statements, such as its balance sheet, income statement, statement of cash flows, and other financial reports.

Q What Do You Know About Balancing A Ledger Account? Ans To know the net effect of all the business transactions recorded in the ledger account, the accounts need to be balanced. Thus, Balancing of Ledger Account means the balances of Debit and Credit side should be equal.

Q . Tell me what are the purposes of maintaining control ledgers? Ans The purpose of maintaining control ledgers are: Sundry Debtors Sundry Creditors Advances to Staff

Q How Would You Reconcile A General Ledger Ans The general ledger is the master set of accounts that aggregates all transactions recorded for a business. When a person is reconciling the general ledger, this usually means that individual accounts within the general ledger are being reviewed to ensure that the source documents match the balances shown in each account. The reconciliation process is a common activity just prior to the arrival of the auditors for the annual audit, to ensure that the accounting records are in pristine condition.

Q Tell me how many periods should have in general ledger, taking into account the annual closing? Ans Their total periods will be 13. First 12 periods for each month and 13th period for the year closing transactions.

Q List some steps of the concept of reconciliation of general ledger Ans The concept of reconciling the general ledger can also refer to examining the general ledger as a whole to ensure that all accounts are being aggregated into the financial statements. This reconciliation process involves the following steps: Summarize the ending balances in all revenue accounts and verify that the aggregate amount matches the revenue total in the income statement.

Summarize the ending balances in all expense accounts and verify that the aggregate amount matches the expense total in the income statement. This can be conducted at the individual expense line item level in the income statement. Summarize all asset, liability and equity accounts and verify that the aggregate amounts match the respective line items in the balance sheet.

Q Explain differences between general ledger and sub ledger Ans Recording of financial information is books of account as per standard accounting principle. Both ledgers are used to record a financial transaction. The general ledger is the principal set of accounts. It records all financial transactions. The general ledger contains all debit and credit entries of transaction and entry for the same is done in different accounts mainly, there are five types of accounts: assets, liabilities, equity, income, and expense.

Q List some steps for reconciliation process at account level? Ans The reconciliation process at the account level typically comprises the following steps: Beginning balance investigation. Match the beginning balance in the account to the ending reconciliation detail from the prior period. If the amounts do not match, investigate the reason for the variance in the prior period. If the account has not been reconciled for some time, it is possible that the error lies several periods in the past.

Q What is the difference between ledger and general ledger? Ans General Ledger means, Those ledgers are used commonly in all types of business organizations. eg: purchases, sales, printing & stationery, etc. Ledger means, for which ledger is created according to the particular organization's business requirement.

Q Why would you like to work with us as a general ledger? Ans The interviewer wishes to see how much you know about the company culture and whether you can identify the organization's values and vision. Every organization has its strong points and these are the ones that you should highlight in your answer.

Q Explain what is procedure for testing after implementation as functional consultant in general ledger Ans Testing involves a step by step check of various transactions configured in the SAP system. Example: In case of MM we need to check if the purchase cycle is working in the system as it is in a real business scenario i.e. whether it is generating PR,RFQ, PO,GI,LIV properly and there are no errors during transactions.

Q Explain What Is An Accrual? Ans Accrual basis of accounting means that the costs or revenues of events are recognized in the period in which they occur, though the cash flows may take place in another accounting period. Like for a period of July 05 - October 05, if the organization was due to receive $10M from an individual X but has not received yet for some reason, will receive in November 05. It would still be accounted for in the period July 05 - October 05 and not the period starting from November 05.

Q Explain what is the significance of responsibility in oracle applications? Ans Users cannot access the concurrent programs (just like Forms) unless the program is attached to a responsibility through a Request Group. Thus the responsibilities provide complete security by restricting access to forms, reports, tables through data-groups and also to specific records (through profile options like Set of Books Id, MO Org Id).
