The Complete Works of Robert Burns (self-interpreting)

Unlike some other reproductions of classic texts (1) We have not used OCR(Optical Character Recognition), as this leads to bad quality books with introduced typos. (2) In books where there are images such as portraits, maps, sketches etc We have endeavoured to keep the quality of these images, so they represent accurately the original artefact. Although occasionally there may be certain imperfections with these old texts, we feel they deserve to be made available for future generations to enjoy.

Excerpt from The Complete Works of Robert Burns, Vol. 2: Self Interpreting When you go forth to waken the echoes, in the ancient and favorite amusement of your forefathers, may Pleasure ever be of your party: and may social Joy await your return! When harassed in courts or camps with the jostlings of bad men and bad measures, may the honest consciousness of injured worth attend your return to your native seats; and may domestic happiness, with a smiling welcome, meet you at your gates! May corruption shrink at your kindling indignant glance; and may tyranny in the ruler, and licentiousness in the people, equally find you an inexorable foe! I have the honor to be, With the sincerest gratitude and highest respect. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. The Complete Works of Robert Burns

Excerpt from The Complete Works of Robert Burns (Self-Interpreting), Vol. 5 We have made a somewhat radical departure from our previous current arrangement, in this volume; inasmuch as we have lifted The Poet's Correspondence with Clarinda and with George Thomson entirely out of the chronological sequence of his works, and treated them as distinct episodes, rounded and complete in themselves, - adding to these his Remarks on Scottish Ballads and Songs, his two Commonplace Books and the record of the Gleuriddell MSS., now in the Athenaeum Library, Liverpool. The advantage of this arrangement will be manifest, because it simplifies the current stride in the record of his writings, poetry and prose, as carefully traced in the other five volumes, and enables us to give these two important episodes, of love-making with Clarinda, and song-making for Thomson, a rounded history and a perfect setting by themselves. We have, in order to make the Thomson correspondence more valuable and attractive, copied from his collection the music, which he published in his original work, of all the songs published, written or revised by Burns. In a work treated in chronological order, the difficulty of dealing with the Common-place Books which, of course, duplicate many of his earlier pieces, was a stumbling-block to our satisfaction, but, by placing them in kindred company with the Bard's Remarks on Scottish Ballads and Songs, in this volume of "Specialties," has relieved our difficulty, and, we believe, will give satisfaction to our readers. The Complete Works of Robert Burns (Self-interpreting)

Excerpt from The Complete Works of Robert Burns, Vol. 6: Self-Interpreting ON finishing this last volume, completing our edition of the works and life OF robert burns, we have only to say that we have endeavored fully to fill the promise of excel lence and completeness, made in our first volume. We have (as circumstantially stated at page 318 of the present volume) more closely followed the text Of the Douglas edition than we originally intended; but we have added many original notes and other interesting memoranda (indicated J. H. Or G. Besides embodying all notes of previous editors that we thought worthy of preservation; thus carrying forward all the excel lences of all previous editions into this edition. The Complete Works of Robert Burns, Vol. 2

Excerpt from The Complete Works of Robert Burns, Vol. 1: Self-Interpreting; Illustrated With Sixty Etchings and Wood Cuts, Maps and Facsimiles A few years later, the poet Cowper, writing from England to a friend in Scotland said, Burns loses much of his deserved praise in this country, through our ignorance of his language. I despair of meeting any Englishman who will take the pains that I have taken to understand him. His candle is light, but shut up in a dark lantern. I lent him to a sensible neighbor of mine, but the uncouth dialect spoiled all, and before he had read him through he was quite ramfeezled.' The Complete Works of Robert Burns

Excerpt from The Complete Works of Robert Burns, Vol. 3: Self-Interpreting, Illustrated With Sixty Etchings and Wood Cuts, Maps and Facsimiles, Part II If your better functions would give you leisure to write to me, I should be extremely happy; that is to say, if you neither keep nor look for a regular cor respondence. I hate the idea of being obliged to write a letter. I sometimes write a friend twice a week; at other times once a quarter. I am exceedingly pleased with your fancy in making the author you mention place a map of Iceland instead of his portrait before his works: 'twas a glorious idea. Could you conveniently do me one thing - when ever you finish any head I should like to have a proof copy of it. I might tell you a long story about your fine genius; but as what everybody knows cannot have escaped you, I shall not say one syllable about it.
