Intro
Supports members in times of pain and trouble. Enriches members with insight and guidance. Is a natural ally with addiction treatment. Has trained leaders. Produces healing or recovery from substance abuse
Advantages of Groups Provide positive peer support for abstinence and positive action Reduce isolation Enable members to witness the recovery of others. Allow members to see how others deal with similar problems.
Provide information to clients who are new to recovery. Provide feedback on group members' values and abilities. Offer family-like experiences. Encourage, coach, support, and reinforce.
Allow a single treatment professional to help a number of clients at the same time Can add needed structure and discipline Instill hope, a sense that If he can make it, so
Training Stages of Change Precontemplation Contemplation Preparation
Variable Factors for Groups Group or leader focus Specificity of the group agenda Heterogeneity or homogeneity of group members Open-ended or determinate duration of treatment Level of leader activity Duration of treatment and length of each session Arrangement of room Characteristics of the individuals
Assist individuals in every stage of change Help clients learn about Their disorders Treatment options
Other resources Provide family members with an understanding of the person in recovery.

Educate about a disorder or teach a skill or tool Work to engage clients in the discussion Prompt clients to relate what they learn to their own issues (disorders, goals, challenges, successes) Are highly structured and often follow a manual or curriculum. Teach ' Apply ' Practice

Psychoeducational Technique Foster an environment that supports participation Encourage participants to take responsibility for their learning Use a variety of learning methods that require sensory experiences Are mindful of cognitive impairments

Skills Development Groups Have a limited number of sessions and a limited number of participants Strengthen behavioral and cognitive resources Focus on developing an information base on which decisions can be made and actions taken

Conceptualize dependence as a learned behavior that is subject to modifications through various interventions Work to change learned behavior by changing thinking patterns, beliefs, and perceptions. Include psychological elements (e.g., thoughts, beliefs, decisions, opinions, and assumptions). Develop social networks that support abstinence so that the person with dependence becomes aware of behaviors that may lead to relapse and develops strategies to continue in recovery.

Support Groups: Purpose Are useful for apprehensive clients who are looking for a safe environment. Bolster members' efforts to develop and strengthen their ability to manage thinking and emotions

Support Group Characteristi Often are open ended, with a changing population of members. Encourage discussion about members' current situations and recent problems. Provide peer feedback and require members to be accountable to one another.

Recognize that conflicting forces in the mind, some of which may be outside one's awareness, determine a person's behavior, whether healthful or unhealthful. Address developmental influences, starting in early childhood, and environmental influences, to which people are particularly vulnerable because of their genetic and other biological characteristics.

Delve into major developmental issues, searching for patterns that contribute to the problem or interfere with recovery. Use psychodynamics, or the way people function psychologically, to promote change and healing. Rely on the here-and-now interactions of members.

Summary Multiple types of groups are available to assist clients in achieving their goals View current coping skills as "creative adaptations" Strengthening the healthy skills Skills required to facilitate these groups overlap significantly

Summary: Making It Effectiv Start group by telling what they are going to learn/do and why it is useful to them Present an overview of what you are talking about Have written material Discuss the material and apply it ° Have each group member close by identifying 1 thing they got out of group and how they will use it.
