DESIGNING IMPACT EVALUATIONS: WHAT ARE THE APPROPRIATE RESEARCH QUESTIONS AND METHODS?

As Impact Evaluation Managers, your role is to ensure that a plan is in place to bridge the knowledge gap between how project outputs result in impacts; and Doing so based on evidence generated using credible methodology

Discuss the development of appropriate impact evaluation questions What types of impact evaluation designs are most appropriate in different contexts and given the evaluation questions?

Development of Impact Evaluation Questions Characteristics of appropriate E questions: They should be narrow specific Focus on small number of questions (-5) Focused on summative evaluation of a project intervention They should reflect the input of program staff and sponsors (research) questions Overall impact (effectiveness) Did it work? Did the intervention produce the intended impacts in the short, medium and long term? . For whom, in what ways and in what circumstances did the intervention work? What unintended impacts (positive and negative) did the intervention produce?

How it works How did the intervention contribute to intended impacts? What were the particular features of the intervention that made a difference? To what extent are differences in impact explained by variations in implementation? Matching intended impacts to needs To what extent did the impacts match the needs of the intended beneficiaries?

Common impact evaluation designs (focused on causal analysis) Methods for examining the factual. For e.g.

In theory, there are multiplicity of methods and approaches that can be used to assess impacts Each have problems and imitations There is no one size fits al method approach

Impact Evaluation Establishing the program theory (the logic behind a program and the causal chain from inputs to outcome to impact) Understanding the program setting How participants are selected to mbigate selection bias Decision tree on which method is applicable and should be

Impact Evaluation (Cont'd) Sample size Power calculation - Does the setting allow for enough numbers of units of intervention and units of observation for a robust design? Tradeoff between power and cost Time frame Is there enough time to observe the impact? Flexibility Strive for rigor, but be flexible Assessment and Evaluation in Education: What's the Difference? - Assessment and Evaluation in Education: What's the Difference? by UNIV-ENGLISH 17,480 views 1 year ago 11 minutes, 49 seconds - #assessment #evaluation #didactics This video focuses on the characteristics of assessment and evaluation in education..

Intro

How can you define assessment and evaluation in education?

What is Assessment? In the field of education, assessment is the process of documenting, measuring and describing what students know and can do (Moses, 2014) formative assessments. (assessments conducted during learning in order to provide feedback that helps students improve their understanding) summative assessments (assessments designed to measure how much a student has learned at the end of a unit or school year) and portfolio assessments (a collection of student work that demonstrates what they have learned over time)

What is Evaluation in education?

Evaluation is actually a process that has many purposes and can be used in a variety of ways.

In order to measure the effectiveness of an educational program it is important to first understand the meaning of evaluation.

Evaluation has been described as "the systematic collection and analysis of information to determine the merit, worth, or value of something" Scriven (1991).

Donaldson & Christie (2006: 250) claim that Evaluation generates information for decision making, often answering the bottom-line questions: "Why does it work?" "For whom does it work best?" "Under what conditions does it work?" "How do we make it better?"

When used in the context of education, evaluation refers to the process of assessing and documenting what students have learned and how well they have learned it.

How do you know if the student has learned something?

Evaluation can help educators determine what methods of instruction work best for students and which strategies need to be changed or discontinued.

Thus, the need for evaluation in education is critical.

The Purpose of Assessment and Evaluation

Assessment is the process of gathering information in order to make decisions.

Evaluation is the use of that information to make judgments about students, programs, or schools.

Formal assessment is more common in schools, while evaluation is more common in businesses.

In evaluation, the results of assessment are used to inform decisions about what a school should be doing, but they do not necessarily direct programmatic changes.

Assessment involves multiple steps.

The first step is to establish the assessment purpose and to determine the types of data that will be collected.

When to use assessment is a difficult question because it can depend on the context and what you are trying to assess.

Generally, though, assessment can be used to measure progress, diagnose learning problems, and determine if instruction is effective.

Assessment is not an exact science and there are many factors to consider when deciding the best time to use assessment.

A teacher's role is to help students learn, and one way to do this is to assess their learning outcomes

This involves determining what students know and

This process should include identifying trends and patterns as well as determining which factors are most influencing student success. Finally, the findings of the evaluation should be used to inform future decisions about teaching and learning.

Assessment refers to the process of gathering information in order to make decisions about students' learning
