More than 75 years after the end of the Holocaust.

Before the war, Romania had a Jewish population of about 750,000.
During WWII, Romania was an ally of Nazi Germany.
Jews were killed in Romania and the territories it seized from the Soviet Union.
And in pogroms perpetrated by the local population.
But for decades, Romania steadfastly refused to confront its culpability for these crimes.
Romania only recognized in 2003 that it had taken part in the murder of the Jews.
The new museum is coordinated by the Elie Wiesel Institute
Elie Wiesel Institute for the Study of the Holocaust in Romania.
It will highlight the heritage and contributions of Romanian Jews to society.
And will also work to improve Holocaust education and combat antisemitism.
Young generations will never cease to wonder how the Holocaust was possible.
Many of us have tried to understand what cannot be understood.
Between 9,000 and 17,000 Jews live in Romania today.
