Conflict, Negotiation and Perspective Taking

In a world where conflicts are commonplace and almost unavoidable, negotiation is recommended as the preferred approach for productively handling the outcomes of disputes. In addition, negotiation is recognized as an enabler of a constructive, grounded attitude toward conflict. This book advocates that perspective-taking is a superior competency to effectively understand the points of view of others, as well as a means to create a beneficial outcome to a conflict, attain sustainable business and solutions, and develop healthier relationships. The three central themes presented in this book: conflict, negotiation, and interpersonal perspective-taking, provide different important insights into the handling of disputes and the practice of negotiation. In-depth understanding of these themes enables the negotiator to forge a “three-dimensional” instrument for effective conflict management. The concept of conflict is first introduced, followed by an examination of the negotiation process, including negotiation strategies, negotiation phases, negotiation competencies, and styles. Considerable attention is then paid to interpersonal perspective-taking and its critical role in successful interpersonal negotiation strategies, before a theoretical discussion on negotiation research models concludes the book. The intent throughout this book is to empower the reader to make the best of every conflict situation and contribute to harmonious and respectful working environments. Every individual, employee, and leader is encouraged to become a proficient negotiator who seeks mutually productive and successful results. The mutual wins require careful consideration of the other's perspective and interests. Although this work primarily addresses professional contexts, the principles and their applications are also highly useful for everyday situations.

Nuclear Deterrence in the 21st Century

Deterrence remains a primary doctrine for dealing with the threat of nuclear weapons in the 21st century. The author reviews the history of nuclear deterrence and calls for a renewed intellectual effort to address the relevance of concepts such as first strike, escalation, extended deterrence, and other Cold War-era strategies in today's complex world of additional superpowers, smaller nuclear powers, and nonstate actors.

Nuclear Politics

Based on extensive quantitative and qualitative analyses of a corpus of American presidential speeches that includes all inaugural addresses and State of the Union messages from 1789 to 2008, as well as major foreign and security policy speeches after 1945, this research monograph analyzes the various forms and functions of intertextual references found in the discourse of American presidents. Working within an original, interdisciplinary theoretical framework established by theories of intertextuality, discourse analysis, and presidential studies, the book discusses five different types of presidential intertextuality, all of which contribute jointly to creating a set of carefully manipulated and politically powerful images of both the American nation and the American presidency. The book is intended for scholars and students in political and presidential studies, communications, American cultural studies, and linguistics, as well as anyone interested in the American presidency in general.

Foreign Affairs

1961 stand im Zeichen der Berlin-Krise, die mit dem Bau der Mauer ihren Höhepunkt fand. Zahlreiche der 566 Dokumente zeigen das Ringen der Bundesregierung mit den Alliierten um Maßnahmen gegen befürchtete weitere Sperrungen auf den Zugängen nach Berlin und um die eigene Rolle in der NATO. Im Fokus der Europapolitik standen Pläne für eine politische Union und einen britischen EWG-Beitritt. Der Eichmann-Prozess in Jerusalem verdeutlichte, wie sehr die Bonner Außenpolitik noch im Schatten der NS-Zeit stand. Die Konkurrenz mit der DDR in den jungen Staaten Afrikas beschleunigte den Ausbau der Entwicklungspolitik; die Zuständigkeit dafür fiel indes in zähen Koalitionsverhandlungen nach der Bundestagswahl vom 17. September an ein neues Ressort.
