The developers of this game must have gotten there inspiration from the Shadow of the Beast series. At least in the forest level with those trees and certain other things, and the way to enter and exit places, also the running animation (yeah, I know, running is running, but it's still very similar compared to the running animation of other games), the first tune you hear when you enter the forest at.AND of course, the "Shadow of the Best V" (no, I didn't spell that wrong) in the monitor at . only went here to show the nice ship: P

I didn't want to kill him, but noticed that if I don't, he will shoot me in the back when I exit to the left after robbing him.

I didn't really have to finish this puzzle for some reason, I could just click on exit and continue with the game. But did it anyway and thought the code might be needed somewhere, but didn't find anything to enter it, so... it probably was there just for fun... no idea :P (I played the SPS/IPF version, non-cracked or modified).

Meh, should have killed this guy and the other baddies before when I met them as it would have been much easier. Now they are harder, especially this guy, he shoots at me from far outside the screen, and I can only hit him if I can SEE him, so have to sacrifice a lot of health to slowly make my way towards him as I can't move faster when being hit, not even jumping.

I probably got this robot to kill the other one, but my health is too low so I couldn't. In robot-form I can only walk and can't turn back to normal again (or exit back to where I came from), and as I have low health, my best bet would be to skip the robot armor and RUN past the other one before it got time to shoot too much at me, but I wanted to show me being a robot so, luckily, I had just enough health to make it to the end. If I ran as a human instead I would have had more health left of course. Noticed after I finished recording that if I enter my inventory when I'm a robot, it shows a new cool weapon and portrait, oh well.

I kept dying when the time ran out so I wondered what the hell to do. I've already tried all the buttons and stuff when I started flying and they did nothing. Then, I noticed that the speed increases slowly if I hold down fire (tried it before, but it's a rather slow increase so didn't notice) and decreased when it's released. I didn't want to replay the last 2 minutes so I loaded the latest save state and played from there
