Mumps in Children - Signs, Causes & Treatment - Mumps in Children - Signs, Causes & Treatment by FirstCry Parenting 130,137 views 4 years ago 5 minutes, 11 seconds - Having a child, who has mumps can be scary for the parent. It is a highly contagious disease, that should be treated immediately.

Stiff neck 5. Headache 6. Fever below 103 degrees

Mumps can spread through coughing, sneezing, and even talking. The virus is highly contagious and spreads quickly from child to child, especially in environments such as schools or daycare centres. Add ginger to your child's food or grind it to a paste and apply it on the swollen area to relieve pain. Similarly, a paste of fenugreek seeds applied to the area will also provide relief.

Heat banyan tree leaves with ghee and use as a bandage on the swelling. This helps fight the virus. Teach your child to use tissues while sneezing. 4. Clean surfaces that your child touches, with a disinfectant.

Encourage your child to use a hand sanitizer. 6. Don't share utensils with your child.
