School Administration and Supervision

The best known book in the field, Supervision: A Redefinition is a research-based guide to the practice and philosophy of supervision. Practical applications are supported by a conception of supervision as moral agency, and the book continues to promote a redefinition of supervision from a traditional top-down hierarchy to a shared activity involving all stake-holders in the school--including teachers, administrators, and parents. The eighth edition continues a thirty-plus year tradition of breaking new ground by reconsidering the field of supervision in response to changing school contexts, policies, and realities. The new edition shows even more clearly how the book's ideas can be used to help supervisors improve their effectiveness: practical suggestions abound.

Excerpt from Educational Administration Supervision, Vol. 8 In securing the information necessary for the discussion of the nature of teacher-training in America, and its possible values for England three lines of investigation have been followed: (1) visits to American training institutions and schools; (2) classes and personal conferences with members of the faculty of Teachers College, Columbia University; conversations with members of other faculties and with fellow-students (3) study of books, journals, normal-school catalogues and current educational literature. The Wiley Handbook of Educational Supervision

Excerpt from Educational Administration Supervision, Vol. 4 It is of the utmost importance that we consider now a program for the development of public education after the war. In England a parliamentary committee has reported in this field, and the present bill before Parliament involves many of their recommendations. As has been suggested above, there is a clearer recognition in England than ever before of the relationship between public education and national welfare. It will be worth while for all who seek to plan for our own future educational development to avail themselves of the careful study and mature statesmanship involved in the proposals now before the English Parliament. Educational Administration & Supervision

Excerpt from Educational Administration and Supervision, 1916, Vol. 2 But this propaganda would probably not have gathered momentum very fast without President Jordan's dynamic articles and addresses urging the amputation of freshman and sophomore classes to prevent university atrophy and urging the relegation of these classes to the high school. His advocacy of its upward extension made the public sit up and take notice and thought and prodded schoolmen into taking the initiative. What had been a Berkeley idea at the beginning had become a California idea, and the spectacle of Berkeley and Stanford climbing the Golden Stairs together, hand in hand, made its appeal with great persuasiveness. Moreover, while Berkeleyans had been in the habit of speaking of six-year high schools, Dr. Jordan gave general currency to the name Junior College, and this proved much more potent in suggestible communities. Educational Administration & Supervision, Volume 4 - Primary Source Edition

Excerpt from Educational Administration Supervision, Vol. 1 of 7: Including Teacher Training, January, 1921 One reason why we are justified in discussing a state plan Of rating teachers is found in the attempt of our State Department of Public Instruction to Operate a teacher placement bureau. The proper discharge of this function is impossible unless the State Department has definite, reliable, and comprehensive data as to the merits Of great numbers of teachers. In fact, the ideal in placement can be reached only when the State Department has on file such data regarding every teacher in the state.

It now happens that those teachers are most likely to be promoted who give most attention to securing better places, while the most faithful and efficient, who do the work of each day without reference to personal recognition, remain unrecognized, and at last retire with the conviction that Merit does not win in teaching. Our state machinery for promoting teachers can not be made inclusive without an army of inspectors, and that is lacking. The substitute program is a uniform method of rating teachers, so that superintendents shall be speaking a common language, when they endorse teachers to the State Department or to each other. The endorsements now submitted in behalf of teachers come too often from those who know little about the ones endorsed, and they frequently omit the things we most wish to know. Before attempting to present a rating plan adapted to South Dakota conditions, we may remark upon the attitude taken toward rating plans where they are in use, and a few of the administrative questions that arise in that connection. Most of the systems using a score card for teachers report that the teachers are friendly to it. Of sixteen cities reporting on this, only two indicate general opposition or skepticism on the part of the teaching force. This is not strange. NO plan can long survive in a system if the teachers are opposed to it. No doubt the absence of a rating card in many systems is a result of the unfavorable attitude of the teachers. Educational Administration & Supervision, Volume 8 - Primary Source Edition

Originally published in 1991. Compiled by prominent figures in the educational administration field across the Commonwealth for the twentieth anniversary of the foundation of the Commonwealth Council for Educational Administration (CCEA) this imaginative and forward-looking book is for practitioners and academics world-wide. The book illuminates significant issues in educational administration; sensitizes readers to the rapidity and inevitability of change in the field; guides well-informed administrative action; provides a comprehensive overview of emergent developments in the study and practice of educational administration; and demonstrates the leadership of the CCEA as a professional association. Having regard to differences of national context, universal issues of policy and practice are explored and two key leadership roles are described and analysed, namely, that of school principal / head teacher, and that of school superintendent / education officer.
