Introduction to Genetic Screening

Scientists can genetically screen individuals by locating specific alleles of a gene using DNA probes. DNA probes are used to locate a mutant allele which causes a specific disease using the following stages: 1 The sequence of the mutant allele is determined by DNA sequencing or by finding the DNA sequence in a genetic

A probe is made by synthesising a fragment of DNA that has a complementary base sequence to the mutant allele.

This DNA probe is labelled with a fluorescent marker.

The DNA probe is then amplified using PCR to produce many copies of the probe.

Many copies of DNA from the person being screened are then heated until they denature and separate into single strands.

If the individual contains the mutant allele, the probes will bind to the DNA fragments that are complementary in a process called hybridisation.

The hybridised DNA can then be detected because of the
