

Domestication Of Plants In The Old World

#plant domestication old world #ancient agriculture history #early plant cultivation #fertile crescent crops #origins of farming

Explore the pivotal process of plant domestication in the Old World, a transformative period that laid the foundation for settled human societies and civilization. This topic delves into the history of farming, examining how specific wild plant species were cultivated into essential crops across regions like the Fertile Crescent, profoundly impacting human development and early agriculture.
