My Witness Testimony

You Know I Thought that You Know We'Re Just a Chemical Accident That We Live for 80 or 90 Years and We Die and that's all There's no Meaning or Pattern Tan Thing Things Just Happen and So Forth and this Ultimately no Purpose to Anything and So I Was in this Black Mood and in that Mood I Was Walking in Nature Early One Morning That's the Only Place I Found any Comfort Was Being in a Beautiful Place in Nature It Was Actually in the Low Pine Woods I Was on Cape Cod in the Low Pine Woods Kind Of behind the Dunes and I Was Just Walking along Lost in My Thoughts and I Had Long since Lost any Hope of Believing in God

I Was on Cape Cod in the Low Pine Woods Kind Of behind the Dunes and I Was Just Walking along Lost in My Thoughts and I Had Long since Lost any Hope of Believing in God When I Received the Most Spectacular Grace of My Life from One Moment to the Next the Curtain between Earth and Heaven Disappeared and I Found Myself in the Presence of God Very Knowingly in the Presence of God in a State a Very Intimate Communion and Communication with God and Seeing My Life as I

Would See It after I Died Looking Back over My Life in the Presence of God

If I Want To Be Smart and Selfish the Only Thing That Made Sense Would Be To Try To Essentially Accumulate As Much Treasure in Heaven as Possible I Actually Saw in this Experience that if I Want To Be Smart and Selfish the Only Thing That Made Sense Would Be To Try To Be As Great a Saint as Possible the Image That Came to My Mind in this Experience Was It Was a Picture of like a Child Playing or Actually the Child Was Me Playing Monopoly and Greedily Accumulating these Big Piles of Brightly Colored Paper Monopoly Money When Right Next to It There Was a Huge Stack of Gold Coins that He Was Ignoring and What I Was Doing Was Putting All My Time and Energy into the Monopoly Money and Ignoring the Gold Coins

And You Know How Much Bigger than Math Was this and this Is God and Yet He Not Only Controlled Everything That Happened to Me He Knew How I Felt at every Moment but Cared about How I Felt at every Moment So I Knew Obviously in this Experience that the Meaning and Purpose of My Life by the Way I Had Been So Worried about Life Having no Meaning and Purpose When of Course I Realized that the Opposite Is True that every Moment Has the Potential for an Action a Value of the Eyes of Heaven for Which We Will Be Rewarded for all Eternity I Mean How Much More Meaning and Purpose Could Life Happen that

About Life Having no Meaning and Purpose When of Course I Realized that the Opposite Is True that every Moment Has the Potential for an Action a Value of the Eyes of Heaven for Which We Will Be Rewarded for all Eternity I Mean How Much More Meaning and Purpose Could Life Happen that and I of Course Knew that the Meaning and Purpose of My Life Was To Worship and Serve My Lord and Master and God Who Was Revealing Himself to Me but What I Didn't Know Was What His Name Was and Who this God Was and What Religion It Was

Which Is every Night before Going To Sleep I Said a Short Prayer That I Had Made Up To Know the Name of My Lord and Master in God Who Had Revealed Himself to Me that Day and a Year to the Day after that First Experience I Know It Was a Year to the Day because I Remember Having Said a Pray or Thanksgiving before Going To Sleep in Thanksgiving for What Had Happened Exactly a Year Earlier and I Went to Sleep and I Thought I Was Woken by Hand on My Shoulder Now I Know that My Body Was Still in Bed but I Thought I Was Awake and My Memory Represents It as though I Were Awake

So that's the Only Way I Can Describe It I Thought I Was Woken by a Hand on My Shoulder and Led to a Room and Left Alone with the Most Beautiful Young Woman I Could Ever Imagine and I Knew without Being Told that It Was the Blessed Virgin Mary and When I Found Myself in Her Presence all I Wanted To Do Was Fall on My Knees and Honor Her Somehow Appropriately Just To Be in Her Presence To Be in the Presence of the Purity and the Intensity of the Love That Flowed from Her Was To Be Left It Up into a State of Ecstasy Greater than I Ever Imagined Could Exist Now I Think Actually that's Very Related to the Bliss of Heaven

I Will Say a Couple on to a Couple More Questions and Answers but before I Do Let Me Say that First of All the Most Overwhelming Aspect of the Experience Was Was the Experience of Her Love and As Beautiful as She Was To Look at and She Was Perfectly Beautiful Even More Profoundly Affecting than Her Visual Beauty Was the Beauty of Her Voice the Sound of Her Voice the Only Way I Can Describe It Is that Her Voice Was Made Up of that Which Makes Music Music that Quality Which Makes Music Music Was the Essence of Her Voice and When She Spoke this Incredibly Beautiful Voice Just Flowed through Me Carrying with It Her Love and Lifting Me Up into the State of Ecstasy And Then When the Questions and Answers Are over She Said She Had Something She Wanted To Talk to Me about and She Spoke to Me for About another Ten or Fifteen Minutes There's a Veil over the Second Part of the Experience They Don't Have the Kind of Word-for-Word Totally Waking Clear Memory of the Second Part I Have a Vague Sense of What She Spoke about but that's all and Then the Audience Is Over and I Went Back to Sleep and the Next Morning When I Woke Up Actually My First Thought When I Woke Up Was Oh Boy I Can't Wait To Go Back to Sleep Again Tonight and See Her Again and When that Didn't Happen

I Thought I Said to Myself Well It's Got To Happen At Least Once a Week Right Earth and Then once a Month and So Forth and by the Time I Realized It Would Never Happen Again the Memory Had Faded to the Point Where I Could Face Going On in Ordinary Life with the Prospect of Having To Wait 60 or 70 Years before Ever Seeing Her Again but It Was a Grace To Think that I Would See Her Again Right Away because if I Had Woken Up that Morning and Known that I Would Have to You Know Live the Rest of My Life without Seeing Her Then I Don't Know How I Could Have Gone On because all of this Life Was So Colorless and Tasteless and Cardboard and Gray Compared to Being in Her Presence that It Would Have Been Very Hard To Reconcile Myself to It

The Church at Home and Abroad, 1892, Vol. 12

Excerpt from The Church at Home and Abroad, 1892, Vol. 12: Published Monthly On Wednesday, May 11, a train of cars, one of which was filled with ministers, elders and women on their way to Port land, left St. Louis, westward bound. About seven o'clock the next morning, we crossed the Missouri into Kansas City, where we were to have three hours to see the sights of that slightly city beside its name-sake, separated from it only by the invisible state line between Missouri and Kansas. Thus what is naturally one city, already great and rapidly growing, is municipally two because it lies in two states. Let the two vie with each other in the strife of our times for more whole some municipal government, and let the churches provoke each other to wholesome emulation in city evangelization. The Church at Home and Abroad

When we think about religion and politics in the United States today, we think of conservative evangelicals. But for much of the twentieth century it was liberal Protestants who most profoundly shaped American politics. Leaders of this religious community wielded their influence to fight for social justice by lobbying for the New Deal, marching against segregation, and protesting the Vietnam War. Gene Zubovich shows that the important role of liberal Protestants in the battles over poverty, segregation, and U.S. foreign relations must be understood in a global context. Inspired by new transnational networks, ideas, and organizations, American liberal Protestants became some of the most important backers of the United Nations and early promoters of human rights. But they also saw local events from this global vantage point, concluding that a peaceful and just world order must begin at home. In the same way that the rise of the New Right cannot be understood apart from the mobilization of evangelicals, Zubovich shows that the rise of American liberalism in the twentieth century cannot be understood without a historical account of the global political mobilization of liberal Protestants.

The Church of the Nazarene embraces American attachments to democratic rule, individual initiative, efficiency, and a strong sense of responsibility as "a city on a hill." It is also present in more than 150 world areas. These attributes are reflected in the astounding story of one of the founders of the denomination, H. F. Reynolds, who has been long hidden in the shadow of his early colleague, Phineas Bresee. While the church points to Bresee as its founding father, Reynolds lived and served for an additional two decades following Bresee's death, shaping the role of the General Superintendency, clarifying and expanding the church's Manual to meet the needs of the growing denomination, and establishing mission policies and practices that took it from a US church to a global presence. Reynolds maintained a lively devotion to Christ as he survived train wrecks, war, dread disease, and the sheer volume of meetings, correspondence, and explosive scandal that came with the nurturing of a new church. His vision and methods have profoundly influenced a denomination that does not know his name. This volume is designed to make the introduction.

The Rambler, a Catholic journal of home and foreign literature [&c.]. Vol.5-new [3rd] [Vol.11 of the new [2nd] ser. is imperf. Continued as The Home and foreign review].

From its very beginning, in June 1842, the Protestant Mission in Gabon included men and women of African descent--African Americans, Americo-Liberians, and West Africans--all teachers and advanced students from the Cape Palmas (Liberia) Mission, who transferred with the mission to its new location on the Gaboon estuary. All came voluntarily and wholeheartedly. They served as teachers, evangelists, preachers, and printers, building the early foundation of Christianity in Gabon. Many eventually returned to their homelands, but others stayed for the duration of their lives, assimilating into the local community. This book celebrates the contribution of persons of African descent who served with the mission from 1834 until 1891, a time of complex and controversial race relations in America, which seeped into mission relations overseas. Private missionary correspondence and journals reveal the interrelationships, roles, and contributions of these individuals, and also the underlying perceptions of nationality, race, and gender. One must grieve the injustices evident in the stories, yet marvel at the giftedness, faith, determination and commitment of those who served, often with no official recognition. I introduce you to Mr. B. V. R. James, Lavinia Sneed, Charity Sneed Menkel, Mary Harding, and others--may their stories inspire you!

The Church at Home and Abroad

This collection of annual reports provides a detailed record of the work done by the Presbyterian Church in the United States to spread the gospel to other countries. Readers will find accounts of missionaries at work in Asia, Africa, and the Middle East, as well as reflections on the challenges and triumphs of this important work. A valuable resource for scholars of religious studies, and for anyone interested in the history of Christian missions. This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important, and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it. This work is in the "public domain in the United States of America, and possibly other nations. 'Simply a great work of reference. Future scholars will wonder how anybody managed without the Wellesley Index. It will quietly change the whole nature of Victorian studies.' Christopher Ricks, New

Statesman 'It is now impossible to think of Victorian literary and historical studies without the benefit of it ... this is a very remarkable achievement indeed ... the complete set will be a monument to the Houghtons foresight, pertinacity and skill.' TLS

The Church at Home and Abroad

This collection of 15 essays provides a fully developed account of the domestic significance of foreign missions from the 19th century through the Vietnam War. U.S. and Canadian missions to China, South America, Africa, and the Middle East have, it shows, transformed the identity and purposes of their mother countries in important ways.

The Church at Home and Abroad

At Home and Abroad bridges the divide in the study of American religion, law, and politics between domestic and international, bringing together diverse authors to explore ties across conceptual and political boundaries. They examine the ideas, people, and institutions that provide links between domestic and foreign religious politics and policies.

The Journal of Arizona History

An educational book useful for pastors, students, and church lay people to gain a realistic understanding of missions work at home and on the foreign field.

The Old-Time Parson

INCONTESTABLY Mr. Ditchfield has the pen of a ready and rapid writer. We have hardly done smiling over the eccentricities of the Parish Clerk before he invites us to join in a hearty laugh over the ways of his master. We shall not be doing him an injustice if we suggest that the object he proposes for himself is to amuse his readers rather than instruct them. Although the present volume appears as one of "The Antiquary's Books," the author aims at the role of popular anecdotist much more than that of serious antiquary. He has certainly been successful in bringing together a large number of gossiping stories, chiefly modern, about the clergy, especially the Bishops (whom Mr. Ditchfield includes among the Parsons). Many of the stories, it must be admitted, are "chestnuts." We have here that venerable jest about the curate's egg which the Pan-Anglican Congress this summer unanimously refused to listen to, when a transatlantic divine attempted to retell it. We find also Temple's unsympathizing response about somebody's aunt, and other familiar stories which are not always accurately told. We decline, therefore, to regard this entertaining volume as a bona fide attempt to write the history of the clergy from an antiquarian point of view. In this respect it falls short even of J. C. Jeaffreson's 'Book about the Clergy,' which had some vogue thirty years ago. Mr. Ditchfield's definition of "Old-Time" must be rather peculiar, as he makes it come down to the end of the nineteenth century. Bishops Wilberforce, Stubbs, Temple, and Creighton, who figure largely in his pages, are hardly Old-Time Parsons.

The Old-Time Parson (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from The Old-Time Parson This book makes no pretension to be complete and regular history of the clerical office. Many volumes would be needed to record the lives, manners, and customs of the clergy. The writer has tried to paint a portrait of the parson at various stages of his career, to catch a glimpse of the Saxon and mediaeval cleric, to see the bishop in his palace, to show what kind of cleric ruled in Elizabethan and later times, to picture him in his pulpit and among his flock, in his sufferings and in his successes, and to discover what other men have written about him. It is a companion portrait to that of The Parish Clerk, who won much favour last year in the eyes of many readers; and if the latter had his picture painted, it is only fair that the occupant of the higher tier of the "three-decker" should share his honour. We venture to hope that the admirers of the clerk will consent to raise their eyes to the parson, who always needs the sympathy and friendship of his fellows, and who by his good deeds, his patience under disappointment, his services to Church and State and to "the few sheep in the wilderness" over whom he exercises his pastoral care, is perhaps not unworthy of their affection and regard. The young scholar's companion; or, A selection of reading lessons

Is it so easily defined between good and evil? The Millieu, forged by a millennium of brutal war between heaven and hell, has now flourished under the command of the Red Emperor- the only Ange left of his kind. With the emperor's grace, the strong nation of Avalon has stayed dominant against its other two rivaling countries. Another millennium has passed, and the savagery of war has mostly forgotten, replaced by the illusion of tranquil, reinforced by people's blind ignorance. But the war is far from over, residing at the north is a vast land of Bhadura. Covered by desert, beneath the deadly sandstorms lies a hidden enemy, which has the power to bring threat to the mighty Avalon. Guarding the Holy Nation of Avalon is the group of holy knights of four. The Four Saints- a title granted by the emperor to his greatest warriors, with powers rival to the gods, they won countless battles against this unknown enemy. They are closing in towards the front door of the enemy, solely for the sake of peace. Now, there's a boy in his youth from the peaceful nation of Rosaria, in a bustling harbour city of Neberium, is hoping to become one of the Saints. With the light of hope, and the flames of hatred, he walks the path where his future is undetermined....

Discourses on Satire and on Epic Poetry - Scholar's Choice Edition

One of the most exciting developments in Romantic studies in the past decade has been the rediscovery and repositioning of women poets as vital and influential members of the Romantic literary community. This is the first volume to focus on women poets of this era and to consider how their historical reception challenges current conceptions of Romanticism. With a broad, revisionist view, the essays examine the poetry these women produced, what the poets thought about themselves and their place in the contemporary literary scene, and what the recovery of their works says about current and past theoretical frameworks. The contributors focus their attention on such poets as Felicia Hemans, Letitia Elizabeth Landon, Charlotte Smith, Anna Barbauld, Mary Lamb, and Fanny Kemble and argue for a significant rethinking of Romanticism as an intellectual and cultural phenomenon. Grounding their consideration of the poets in cultural, social, intellectual, and aesthetic concerns, the authors contest the received wisdom about Romantic poetry, its authors, its themes, and its audiences. Some of the essays examine the ways in which many of the poets sought to establish stable positions and identities for themselves, while others address the changing nature over time of the reputations of these women poets.

Christian Work

The essential honesty of Marie Kelleher-Roy's writing reveals a thinking, curious person trying to understand the world in which she lives. Family relationships, religion, parenting, feminism, travel, loneliness, and diverse interests and occupations make this a fascinating piece of American history. Growing up in the thirties in New England and now living in the twenty-first century on the west coast, Ms. Kelleher-Roy's life spans nearly eighty years. She has lived alone for the last twenty-five years, following an artistic path. From the shores of Lake Pennessseewassee in Maine to Moonstone Beach in California, this is trip you will want to take.

The Scholar

Making the Right Choice unravels the entangled relationship between marriage, morality, and the desire for modernity as it plays out in the context of middle-class status concerns and aspirations for upward social mobility within the Sinhala-Buddhist community in urban Sri Lanka. By focusing on individual life-histories spanning three generations, the book illuminates how narratives about a gendered self and narratives about modernity are mutually constituted and intrinsically tied to notions of agency. The book uncovers how "becoming modern" in urban Sri Lanka, rather than causing inter-generational conflict, is a collective aspiration realized through the efforts of bringing up educated and independent women capable of making "right" choices. The consequence of this collective investment is a feminist conundrum: agency does not denote the right to choose, but the duty to make the "right" choice; hence agency is experienced not as a sense of "freedom," but rather as a burden of responsibility.
