The Chinese Photographer Obsessed With Death - #NoFilter (S1E3) - The Chinese Photographer Obsessed With Death - #NoFilter (S1E3) by Goldthread 5,026 views 4 years ago 8 minutes, 3 seconds - Award-winning photographer, Zhou Qiang is known for his intimate portraits of life and death in rural China,. His work has been ...

During the big earthquake in 2013

It was my first time witnessing such a devastating scene.

Zhou Qiang is a documentary photographer from Sichuan.

His work has won awards at home and abroad

He's most famous for his intimate portraits of rural life in China and I'm a video producer here at Goldthread.

My name is Zhou Qiang, and I'm a photographer.

When I was a kid, I was bad at school

When I was 12, I dropped out.

A Taoist priest helps the dead cross over into the afterlife.

That was probably my first connection to news photography.

A news editor saw my photo and contacted me

During the earthquake, I went deep into the scene.

The earthquake forced Zhou to rethink his life

After six years as a breaking news photographer

This photo is especially memorable to me.

It was a monk with his dog.

One day, he passed by a wet market

So he bought the dog.

Zhou's work captures the dignity and poverty of rural life.

This photo of an AIDS patient in a small village in Tibet

one of the most prestigious prizes in photography, in 2017.

Some of his other photos show his curiosity with death.

I was driving when I saw a dead cow in the river.

I took off my clothes and jumped into the river to take a picture.

We went to a remote mountain in Sichuan

I switched from journalism to art

This tattoo is my grandpa's birthday.
