QUESTIONS Performance appraisals ensure that every person who works for an organization gets the answers to two vital questions: What do you expect of me? and How am I doing at meeting expectations?

RATING A great part of the discomfort associated with performance appraisals results from the belief that a manager's evaluation of the performance of a subordinate, and specifically the appraisal rating, may not be correct.

CALIBRATION To address this, some companies use a process called leveling, or calibration, which involves scheduling a meeting with a group of managers, all of whom supervise employees in reasonably comparable jobs.

MEETING The meeting is held after the managers have drafted their performance appraisals, but before they discuss those appraisals with their subordinates. Managers must operate in good faith and agree to some guidelines.

In determining the appropriateness of the specific rating to be assigned, participants will restrict themselves to discussing the quality of the individual's performance during the appraisal period against results and behaviors.

OPENNESS Leaders must be open to changing the rating of an employee when the information provided indicates that a change is appropriate.

CONFIDENTIALITY All participants must maintain confidentiality and not disclose comments made about individuals whose performance is reviewed in a performance calibration session.

PERFORMANCE The mission of these meetings is to ensure that all performance appraisal ratings are based on an individual's actual performance, regardless of what department the person works in or who her boss is.

Given the importance of performance appraisals on business decisions, companies are implementing calibration procedures to ensure accuracy.
