A vehicle's RF wheel makes a growing sound that changes pitch on different road surfaces. Which of the following is MOST likely causing this sound?

The steering wheel grabs and binds only at specific points of the wheels rotation Technician A says the steering shaft universal joint is binding Technician B says the intermediate shaft could be the cause. Who is correct?

The steering column squeaks while turning the steering wheel in either direction A) of the following will cause this noisy steering column EXCEPT

Two technicians are discussing tie rod ends. Technician A says that loose tie rod ends result in wander and constant steering wheel correction Technician B says to rock the wheel back and forth at the three and nine o'clock positions to check for tie rod looseness. Who is correct?

A vehicle with a power rack and pinion steering system does not return to center after completing a turn. Technician A says a binding lower ball joint would affect the steering wheel's ability to return to center Technician B says this could be caused by an incorrect caster angle. Who is correct?

A technician is replacing worn coil springs on a light truck with coil spring suspension. All of the following support a solid axle with coil spring suspension EXCEPT

Two technicians are discussing struts on a front-wheel-drive vehicle. Technician A says some struts have a camber lobe adjustment. Technician B says a worn strut tower will make excessive noise while traveling over bumps in the road Who is correct?
