The 4 pairs of sinuses are the Frontal, Maxillary, Ethmoid, and Sphenoid.

The sinuses are lined with pink skin covering called Mucosa.

When the sinuses become inflamed or infected, it is called Sinusitis.

Sinus inflammation can be caused by viruses, bacteria, allergies, chemicals, pollution, dust, smoke, and other environmental factors.

Allergies can cause similar symptoms as sinusitis.

Many sinusitis patients also have allergies.

If someone chronic or recurrent sinusitis, we look for structural or anatomic issues, environmental factors, and evaluate how well the immune system is working.

Surgery can address anatomic/structural issues and improve drainage of the sinuses and may be an option for some patients.
