In this deep dive, we reflect on the recent debate between Leighton Flowers and James White, focusing on their differing approaches to the Gospel, election, and the universality of Christ's atonement. Leighton Flowers reiterates his foundational belief that the Gospel's presupposition is John's declaration of God's love for the world, not merely the elect. He challenges Calvinist views, particularly James White's, on the personal nature of the Gospel and the concept of election. We explore the necessity of preaching the Word, as seen in Romans 10, for belief and faith to arise, illustrated beautifully by the story of the Ethiopian Eunuch in Acts.40. This narrative not only emphasizes the Old Testament's role in leading to Christ but also showcases Christianity's universal call, transcending all human barriers.

Reflecting on Matthew.46, we bring clarity to the Gospel, emphasizing actions in line with Jesus' teachings as the true mark of distinction between the sheep and the goats, rather than predestined

And Jesus said: "Truly I say to you, if not you be converted and become as the little children, you may not enter into the kingdom of Heaven, not ever! Therefore whoever will humble himself as this little child, this one is the greater in the kingdom of Heaven." (Matthew 18.3-4).

"As St. Paul points out". See 1 Corinthians 14.20 - "Brothers and sisters, stop thinking like children. In regard to evil be infants, but in your thinking be adults."

"Behold, I send you forth as sheep in the midst of wolves. Therefore, be wise as serpents and harmless as doves" (Matthew 10.16). See also Jeremiah 4.22 on the same topic: "My people are foolish. They do not know Me. They are stupid children, and they have no understanding. They are wise to do evil, but they do not know to do good."

The last line of a common children's prayer, once on the wall of many nurseries in England.

If you have daughters, an interesting story to explain to them is the meaning of "Little Red Riding Hood", in its original French version (1697 A.D.), which is about being wise when it comes to one's own protection. This is a story of a young, pretty girl who is complimented by the flattering attention of a stranger, and so gives too much personal information to a sexual predator. She is also clueless as to the evil motives behind the predator's instructions to her. This was a tale to teach young girls to be aware of charming "wolves", "who pursue young women at home and in the streets." See "Little Red Riding Hood" by Charles Perrault and its ending moral: "Children, especially attractive, well bred young ladies, should never talk to strangers, for if they should do so, they may well provide dinner for a wolf. I say "wolf," but there are various kinds of wolves. There are also those who are charming, quiet, polite, unassuming, complacent, and sweet, who pursue young women at home and in the streets. And unfortunately, it is these gentle-wolves who are the most dangerous ones of all."

Concerning eating meat: "Eat anything sold in the meat market without raising questions of conscience, for 'The earth is the Lord's, and everything in it' (Ps 24.1). If an unbeliever invites you to a meal and you want to go, eat whatever is put before you without raising questions of conscience. But if someone says to you, 'This has been offered in sacrifice [to an idol],' then do not eat it, both for the sake of the one who told you and for the sake of conscience. I am referring to the other person's conscience, not yours. For why is my freedom being judged by another's conscience? If I take part in the meal with thankfulness, why am I denounced because of something I thank God for?"

Part of the dramatised addition to Lewis' chapter includes a discussion about the meaning of 'Natural', which Lewis showed has many quite different usages. See 'The Abolition of Man' (chapter 3), 'Miracles' (chapter 2) and 'Studies in Words' (chapter 2).

One of these abstract, universal truths is the Moral Law: "...this Rule of Right and Wrong, or Law of Human Nature, or whatever you call it, must somehow or other be a real thing—a thing that's really there, not made up by ourselves. And yet it's not a fact in the ordinary sense, in the same way as our actual behaviour is a fact. It begins to look as if we'll have to admit that there's more than one kind of reality; that, in this particular case, there's something above and beyond the ordinary facts of men's behaviour, and yet quite definitely real—a real law, which none of us made, but which we find pressing on us" (Mere Christianity, The Reality of the Moral Law').
