Sir Philip Sidney Sir Christopher Hatton Lord Bacon Sir Henry Wotton Peter Du Moulin Dr. Donne Philip III., King of Spain Catharine Bretterg Oxenstiern, Chancellor of Sweden Hugo Grotius John Selden Cardinal Richelieu Lord Harrington Salmasius. SECTION I. SIR PHILIP SIDNEY. Sir Philip Sidney was born in Kent, in the year 1554. He possessed shining talents; was well educated; and at the early age of twenty one, was sent by Queen Elizabeth, as her ambassador to the emperor of Germany. He is described by the writers of that age, as the finest model of an accomplished gentleman that could be formed, even in imagination. An amiable disposition, elegant erudition, and polite conversation, rendered him the ornament and delight of the English court. Lord Brooke so highly valued his friendship, that he directed to be inserted as part of his epitaph, Here lies Sir Philip Sidney's friend. His fame was so widely spread, that if he had chosen it, he might have obtained the crown of Poland. But the glory of this Marcellus of the English nation, was of short duration. He was wounded at the battle of Zutphen, and carried to Arnheim, where, after languishing about three weeks, he died, in the 32d year of his age. This accomplished person, at the solemn period of approaching death, when a just estimate of things is formed, and when the mind looks round for support and consolation, perceived that the greatest worldly honours are only splendid vanities, and have but a momentary duration. At this period, he was so dissatisfied with his Arcadia, a romantic work, ill agreeing with his present serious views of things, that it is said, he desired it might never be published. After he had received the fatal wound, and was brought into a tent, he piously r...

The Power of Religion on the Mind, in Retirement and Affliction and at the Approach of Death; Exemplified in the Testimonies and Experiences of Person

There are moments in the lives of all of us when we catch glimpses of a lifeÑour lifeÑthat is infinitely beyond the life we are now living. We realise that we are living below our possibilities. We long for the realisation of the life that we feel should be. Instinctively we perceive that there are within us powers and forces that we are making but inadequate use of, and others that we are scarcely using at all. Practical metaphysics, a more simplified and concrete psychology, well-known laws of mental and spiritual science, confirm us in this conclusion. Our own William James, he who so splendidly related psychology, philosophy, and even religion, to life in a supreme degree, honoured his calling and did a tremendous service for allmankind, when he so clearly developed the fact that we have within us powers and forces that we are making all too little use ofÑthat we have within us great reservoirs of power that we have as yet scarcely tapped. The men and the women who are awake to these inner helpsÑthese directing, moulding, and sustaining powers and forces that belong to the realm of mind and spiritÑare never to be found among those who ask: Is life worth the living? For them life has been multiplied two, ten, a hundred fold. It is not ordinarily because we are not interested in these things, for instinctively we feel them of value; and furthermore our observations and experiences confirm us in this thought. The pressing cares of the everyday lifeÑin the great bulk of cases, the bread and butter problem of life, which is after all the problem of ninety-nine out of every hundredÑall seem to conspire to keep us from giving the time and attention to them that we feel we should give them. But we lose thereby tremendous helps to the daily living. Through the body and its avenues of sense, we are intimately related to the physical universe about us. Through the soul and spirit we are related to the Infinite Power that is the animating, the sustaining forceÑthe Life ForceÑof all objective material forms. It is through the medium of the mind that we are able consciously to relate the two. Through it we are able to realise the laws that underlie the workings of the spirit, and to open ourselves that they may become the dominating forces of our lives.É

POWER OF RELIGION ON THE MIND

In the beginning if you believe. It is said that a Divine Energy declared the very existence of the universe in a strong definite divine affirmation, a thought. Within these words lies one of the many great secretes and the power of the universe, although no one can profess to know what this Divine Energy knows, one can say that there was a definite desire or definite purpose to create the earth and everything in it to include man and woman. From within this Divine Energy, would you believe that within each and every one of us lies very same divine energy that we can use to believe in ourselves, create the life that we have always wanted, and become closer to understanding what your true purpose in life is? This wonderful gift of is the Power of Belief. As you have guessed "The Power of Belief\
