The Coon Dog Chronicles

The Coon Dog Chronicles are a varied assortment of events and experiences that have marked some sort of strange turning point in my life. Why these particular stories I haven't a clue. A brown paper bag, a three-legged horse that refused to give up, three wild dogs that only wanted a friend. A brief talk with the wind. An old cowboy's last rodeo. The heart wrenching account of a friend's tribute to a dying daddy. It has occurred to me that these and other similar events have formed the substance of what I perceive to be my soul. Hopefully you will enjoy an identify with some of these. Possibly they will remind you of events in your life. And you will realize that such is the stuff of which we are made. Pieces of my heart have been lost along the way. For those I will continue to search. Adios Rj

The Hound Dog Chronicles: Ned, the Littlest Bluetick

Ned, the Littlest Bluetick is a story about love & companionship between Ned & his owner, after she adopted him. Ned also has some funny quirks. He's half the size of a typical Bluetick Coonhound. He doesn't like being dressed up in Halloween costumes. He hides in whatever he can to do his bathroom business. He leaves "love nuggets" on his Mama's bed. He gets car sick on car rides & goes on many exciting adventures. Ned also gets cancer so, he lives out his final days completing his fun "bucket list" while realizing how great it is to live a life full of adventures & being so loved.

Finder, Coal Mine Dog

A boy and his dog survive the 1909 Cherry Mine disaster in this action-packed and heartwarming story. When Thomas's family needs money, he's forced to go to work in the coal mines, even though neither of his late parents wanted that for him. His only comfort is his dog Finder, a failed hunting dog who now pulls a cart in the mines. When disaster strikes, can Thomas and Finder escape from the fires deep below ground? The Dog Chronicles series features fast-paced, fascinating historical fiction about working dogs, perfect for readers who love books.

The Brown Dog Chronicles

Hi, I'm Daniel, I am 53 years old, and in that time I've done a lot of different things. I worked in a Stone quarry for a few years, drove a semi for a few more, worked in retail a bit, and owned a gun shop. Somewhere along the line, I got an associates degree in wildlife management from Hocking College in southern Ohio. I've been fortunate enough to live in four different states and visit Hudson Bay and Saskatchewan during the fall migration. But, amid all that, there have been three constants in my life. I've been writing since I could hold a pencil. I've been hunting since I could hold a BB gun, and there have always been dogs. That old fellow laying on my lap in the picture is Bill, and he's the one who got me started on Chesapeake Bay Retrievers. He's been with me for 11 years now, and he's the patriarch of the dog pack that lives at my house, and like all Chessies, he's the epitome of loyalty, mischief, and heart.

The Chronicles of Mikey & Me: Or How I Learned to Partner with My Difficult Duck Dog

The Chronicles of Mikey & Me took shape over 10 years in the life of our first family Labrador. From his first days as a puppy to his final moments, he showed himself to be an alpha-male canine. I had to learn how to work with him and shape him into a suitable hunting partner. Or was it he who shaped me? The seminal stories from that time remain fixed in my memory to this day. To bring them back to life now on these pages, will I hope add to the body of knowledge about working and struggling with the character and nature of a supremely gifted canine -who had a very unique temperament. For the true dog enthusiast, I know you'll get it. For those who want to become so, I hope you will come away with a fresh awareness of what it might take to align with your new companion. Rick Stecker began his writing career as a reporter for a daily newspaper. Then came a stint in U.S. Navy public affairs aboard an aircraft carrier. What followed was 25 years in business and corporate communications at both the national and international levels. Rick then used his experience to build Grounds to Grow, a coaching & consulting business reaching small businesses and entrepreneurs. Today he continues to write books on business and content for the internet, and focus his attention on his faith. He and his wife, Sharon, live in north-central Wisconsin; they have three grown children and one grandchild.

The Modern Dog

Dogs are invented creatures -- invented by humans, who have been shaping the lives of these four-legged companions for more than 14,000 years. However, we often forget that, just as dogs live in our world, we live in theirs. The Modern Dog is a look at our coevolution, interpreting both canine and human points of view, by Dr. Stanley Coren, the most consistently popular author of dog books ever. A fascinating treasure trove of information gleaned from science, folklore, religious writing, tradition, and politics, The Modern Dog explores not only how dogs behave, but also how we share our lives with our dogs. Much more a romp than a formal exposition, The Modern Dog's profiles and tales are funny, sweet, quirky, and reveal a lot about both species and our centuries-long partnership. This book will show you how the mutually beneficial relationship between humans and dogs might very well be the reason why early Homo sapiens evolved and survived while Neanderthals became extinct. You will see how dogs have played many prominent roles in human history, from ancient Egypt, where Pharaoh Ramses II was buried with the names and statues of four of his dogs, to modern American politics, where many U.S. presidents have derived comfort from canine companionship. Our modern dog is quite different from the dogs that existed even a century ago, its job having changed dramatically from the hunting, herding, retrieving, and guarding for which many were bred. In this book, you will see that it is often how people respond to and interpret the actions of dogs (and dog owners) that has a greater effect on the dog's life than the behavior patterns that have been programmed into the dog's genes. The Modern Dog will show you how some of your dog's strange and funny habits are his own and some come from you. Illustrated throughout with Dr. Coren's own charming drawings, The Modern Dog chronicles the various aspects of how we interact with dogs, how society responds to dogs, how our relationships with dogs have changed over history, and where dogs fit into our personal and emotional lives. It does this by telling the stories of dogs that work, dogs that love, dogs that behave badly, and dogs that will make you laugh.

The Pond Mountain Chronicle

Located in the area where North Carolina, Virginia and Tennessee meet, Pond Mountain rises to over 4,000 feet. In its valley it holds the Pond Mountain community, a small area in Ashe County, North Carolina. Most of the families that live in the valley have been there for generations, farming the land. Here 31 Pond Mountain residents reflect on their childhoods, families, neighbors, customs and traditions, and the changes that have come to their mountain communities. What emerges is a unique look at a way of life that is rapidly being lost to history.

Noah and Link

Noah turned his head as rain rolled down the window near his hospital bed. Then he suddenly felt something wet on the palm of his hand. It was a French bulldog burrowing under his hand. "That's Link's way of asking you to pet him!" said the dog's handler. Noah stroked Link's short fur and told the dog about how he broke his leg during a flood. As if sensing his sadness, Link licked Noah's chin. For the first time in days, a broad smile appeared on Noah's face.

A Rough-shooting Dog

A chronicle of the first hunting season with the author's springer spaniel.

My Indy

Jamey's father walked into the kitchen, holding a surprise. It was an adorable black lab puppy. "A puppy? For me?" Jamey shouted. "Not just any puppy. With your help, he'll grow up to use his sight and other senses to help a person who can't see," said her dad. Little did Jamey know that an incredible bond would soon grow between her and Indy, the tiny puppy destined to become a guide dog.

Three-legged Hero

Ten-year-old dog-walker Cali sees a new three-legged dog named Thunder hop around her neighborhood as well as any other dog, and she soon learns of his bravery in the Marines.

Sherlock

"Get her!" the police officer shouted. Sherlock the police dog took off at full speed in the parking lot of the Hound Town Mall. The thief was about to get into her car when she saw the dog running toward her. She pushed a shopping cart directly at the German shepherd. Whoosh! Sherlock leaped right over it. Would he be able to capture the thief before she escaped?

Sunny on Alert!

"Oh, no," said Max. His dog Sunny was acting funny—stepping back and forth and yelping. These were signs that Max was about to have a seizure. But the school's nurse's office door was locked! Could Sunny and Max's friends keep him safe until help arrived?

Stray to Star!

Moving to Hound Town, a lonely boy's first friend is a brave dog.

Chaucer's Chronicles (a Dog's Story)

The hysterical adventures of an uber-smart Australian Cattle dog and German Shepherd mix are the wonderful chronicles of Chaucer, the mutt extraordinaire. Chaucer's defied the odds, gets adopted out of the pound by a singleton in New York City and takes over Manhattan with her hilarious escapades from hanging with Oscar(r) winners to bumping into celebrities on the Upper East Side. There's no place Chaucer won't venture into from designer stores to book stores. Chaucer weaves her tales of mad-cap capers from upstate trips to the ski lodge to eating the finest beef in Manhattan, because only the best would do! You will fall in love with Chaucer's endearing charm and her sassy attitude, as well as be touched by her determination when she battles cancer. Chaucer captured the hearts of all those she came in contact with in her dog life.

Trapped!

Search-and-rescue dogs are used to find three students and a teacher when they become trapped in the basement of an elementary school following an explosion.

Newfie to the Rescue!

At Hound Town Lake, Emma meets the newest lifeguard, a Newfoundland, and learns how the dog's webbed feet and rudder-like tail are used to save struggling swimmers.

The Antiquarian Chronicle and Literary Advertiser

An in-depth history of one of the quintessential hunting dog breeds, the Plott hound. Though originating in Germany, the Plott hound reached worldwide fame through the contributions of many colorful characters from the Southern Appalachians. Originally brought to America by German immigrant Johannes "George" Plott, the hounds quickly became renowned for their stamina and gameness. Quill Rose - a legendary local outlaw, moonshiner, gunfighter and more - helped cultivate the bloodline for bear hunting, while revered baseball icon Branch Rickey brought national acclaim to the breed through his hunts in the Hazel Creek Watershed. Writer Frank Methven wrote extensively about the Plott hound for decades, and the Methven Award remains one of the most coveted big game hunting awards in the world. Author and breed expert Bob Plott reveals the fascinating people and places that have shaped the history of the Plott hound.

Plott Hound Tales: Legendary People and Places Behind the Breed

When Charles Gusewelle first saw Rufus as a pup, he was a mere tangle of orange and white fur. The plan was that he'd be an outdoor dog. But the feisty, inquisitive Rufus decided otherwise, and quickly made his way inside the house--and soon after, inside his owner's heart. The Rufus Chronicle is Gusewelle's moving chronicle of the thirteen years he spent with his devoted, loyal, and much loved Brittany spaniel, Rufus. It is an affecting, unforgettable portrait of the tender relationship between a man and his dog. As Gusewelle so eloquently notes, "Some of us learn forgiveness by studying the lives of saints. And some of us keep dogs. . . ."

These are the very off-the-wall jottings of the slave of a very special whippet (or Pointy-Nosed Counter Surfing Bastard Hound) called Crumb. If you are a dog lover, particularly a whippet fancier, you will understand some of the nuances and mannerisms of my dear Crumb. If you hate dogs, this book is probably not for you. If you received it as a present and you fall into this category, may I suggest that you pass it on to someone who may appreciate the humour and irony expressed in this volume. If you are of nervous disposition, easily offended by bad language, irreligious ideation or by irreverent references to television personalities, move down the shop and look under Barbara Cartland or Enid Blyton. If you are able to read joined-up writing and a dog lover, you will just love this book. Well I hope that you do! Ask an adult to buy it for you and don't be caught reading it. Your parents may not approve (rude bits)! If you're 'of a certain age' or prone to 'leaks' make sure you're near a toilet as you could pee yourself laughing.

Volume II of the first complete English translation of the chronicles of Fernão Lopes chronicles the reign of Fernando I (1367-1383) including Portugal's involvement in the Hundred Years' War, the military conflicts with Castile, the alliances with England, Aragon and Granada, the king's marriage with Leonor Teles, and the dispute over the succession to the Portuguese throne.' Until now, the chronicles of Fernão Lopes (c.1380-c.1460) have only been available in critical editions or in partial translations. Comparable to the works of Froissart in France or López de Ayala in Spain, the chronicles provide a wealth of detail on late fourteenth-century politics, diplomacy, warfare and economic matters, courtly society, queenship and noble women, as well as more mundane concerns such as food, health and the purchasing power of a fluctuating currency. Lopes had a keen eye for detail and a perspective especially attuned to the common people, and his chronicles provide an invaluable source for the history of Western Europe in the later Middle Ages.

Chronicles of Crumb

Ten-year-old Cali watched her new dog-walking client hop around the neighborhood. Thunder was a retired military dog—a real-life hero who had saved several lives in Afghanistan. The German shepherd only had three legs, but he moved around almost as quickly as any other dog. What did Thunder do in the Marines, and would he once again prove himself a hero? Cali was about to find out.

Athenaeum and Literary Chronicle

Written in two parts, A Family Chronicle tells of the episodes once forgotten but were brought back to light in the first part. The author reconstructs remembrances of his own childhood. The second part contains testimonies of his family members, who, like him, had to leave their hometown in 1945 when the Russian steamroller threatened to overrun his town. This memoir documents these events so that they may not be forgotten by the next generation. The cruelty of war and his terrible consequences is also given some thought.

The Pennsylvania Sportsman

"His life had come to this: save a few deer from the jaws of dogs. He was a small man sent to perform a small task." Howard Elman is a man whose internal landscape is as disordered as his front yard, where native New Hampshire birches and maples mingle with a bullet-riddled washer, abandoned bathroom fixtures, and several junk cars. Howard, anti-hero of this first novel in Ernest Hebert's highly acclaimed Darby Chronicles, is a man who is tough and tender. Howard's battle against encroaching change symbolizes the class conflict between indigenous Granite Staters scratching out a living and citified immigrants with "college degrees and big bank accounts." Like the winter-weakened deer threatened by the dogs of March--the normally docile house pets whose instincts arouse them to chase and kill for sport--Howard, too, is sorely beset. The seven novels of Hebert's Darby Chronicles cover 35 years in the life of a small New England town as seen through the eyes of three families--the Elmans, the Salmons, and the Jordans--each representing a distinct social class. It all starts with The Dogs of March, cited for excellence in 1980 by the Hemingway Foundation (now the Pen Faulkner Award for Fiction).
