Supplies required for this procedure include standard mounting jig, blade, tweezers, silver paint

While 5 x 5 mm makes sample mounting easier.

Insert blade into the mounting jig

Make sure the blade is fully seated. Avoid placing pressure on the blade ce

Then close the jig gate and tighten the hex screws.

Use acetone to wipe contaminants off the tip of the blade.

Place the mounting jig under a stereo microscope.

Do not make contact between the blade and the stop.

Contact with the stop may round the pointed tip of the blade.

Note the distance between the stop and the blade to set your zero point.

The blade should overhang less for hard samples.

Apply a drop of silver paint away from the tip of the blade.

Use tweezers to guide the sample evenly against the stop.

For softer samples, use a toothpick to minimize sample damage.

Alternatively, place the sample flush against the stop.

Wait 5 minutes for the silver paint to dry.

Retract the stop using the micrometer.

Gently remove the sample with tweezers, then place on a blade holder.

use the supplied tweezers to lift the sample, notch side facing you.

Then insert into the instrument for processing.
