The Hound of the Baskervilles

'The Hound of the Baskervilles' is the crime novel written by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle featuring the detective Sherlock Holmes. Sir Arthur Ignatius Conan Doyle (22nd May 1859- 7th July 1930) was a British writer and physician. He created the character Sherlock Holmes in 1887. Sherlock Holmes is a fictional private detective. He is known for his proficiency with observation, deduction, forensic science and logical reasoning. He is characterised in many investigating cases for a wide variety of clients including Scotland Yard. This character has been pictured in many events. Holmes popularity and fame are such that many have believed him to be not a fictional character but a real individual. Even 'Guinness World Records' lists him as the most portrayed literary human character in film and Television industry. Doyle was a prolific writer. His works include fantasy, science fiction stories, plays, romances, poetry, non-fiction and historical novels. The novel narrates on crime and focus on Dartmoor. The detective Sherlock Holmes and his assistant Dr. Watson are called to investigate the mysterious death of a healthy Dartmoor, whose death appears to be connected with the curse of a legendary, monstrous hound of supernatural origin. The story is set in the moors at Baskerville Hall and the nearby Grimpen Mire, and the activity takes place at night hours. It all happens in order to inherit the family estate and all the whole story seems very thrilling and full of horror and mysteries. Except from the novel :- "I have in my pocket an manuscript," said Dr. James Mortimer. "I observed it as you entered the room," said Holmes. "Early Eighteenth century, unless it is a forgery." "How can you say that sir?"

The Hound of Baskervilles

The Hound of the Baskervilles opens with a mini mystery—the story of an attempted murder inspired by the legend of a fearsome hound of supernatural origin. Sherlock Holmes and his companion Doctor Watson investigate the case. They speculate on the identity of the owner of a cane that has been left in their office by an unknown visitor. Holmes predicts the appearance of James Mortimer, owner of the found object and a convenient entrée into the baffling curse of the Baskervilles.

The Hound of the Baskervilles

The Hound of the Baskervilles is the third of the four crime novels written by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle featuring the detective Sherlock Holmes. Originally serialised in The Strand Magazine from August 1901 to April 1902, it is set largely on Dartmoor in Devon in England's West Country and tells the story of an attempted murder inspired by the legend of a fearsome, diabolical hound of supernatural origin. The Hound of the Baskervilles

Mr. Sherlock Holmes, who was usually very late in the mornings, save upon those not infrequent occasions when he was up all night, was seated at the breakfast table. I stood upon the hearth-rug and picked up the stick which our visitor had left behind him the night before. It was a fine, thick piece of wood, bulbous-headed, of the sort which is known as a "Penang lawyer." Just under the head was a broad silver band nearly an inch across. "To James Mortimer, M.R.C.S., from his friends of the C.C.H.," was engraved upon it, with the date "1884." It was just such a stick as the old-fashioned family practitioner used to carry — dignified, solid, and reassuring. "Well, Watson, what do you make of it?" ...

The Hound of the Baskervilles (Annotated)

Differentiated book-It has a historical context with research of the timeThe novel The Dog Of The Baskervilles was published in 1902 in English, the artist in charge of the cover was covered Alfred Garth Jones, has 181 pages and the publisher of the Hound of the Baskervilles is George Newnes. The novel is mainly set in Dartmoor, in Devon, a county in western England. Conan Doyle developed this novel shortly after returning from South Africa, where he worked as a clinical volunteer at a Bloemfontein Hospital. He was helped in writing by a Daily Express journalist known as Bertram Fletcher Robinson, who gave him information for the novel. The story tells Holmes and Watson chasing the ghost of a dog that stalks the city. Meet also the steppe wolf, it's a good book. Dr. James Mortimer asks Sherlock Holmes for a recommendation after the death of his friend, Sir Charles Baskerville. He was found dead on his Devonshire property. Mortimer is now afraid of Sir Charles's nephew and sole beneficiary, Sir Henry Baskerville is the new Baskerville Hall teacher. Know the Da Vinci code you will surely like. Death was attributed to a heart attack, but Mortimer suspects, because Sir Charles died with an expression of horror on his face. The Baskerville family has allegedly been under a curse since the Civil War era. Holmes meets Sir Henry, a newcomer from Canada. Sir Henry received an anonymous note, cut and pasted from newspaper, warning him to leave the moors of Baskerville, and one of his new boots inexplicably missing in his hotel room in London. Holmes and Dr. Watson follow him back to his hotel and watches a man following him in a taxi. Holmes examines Dr. Mortimer's cane. Barrymore and his wife, who also works at Baskerville Hall, want to leave the property soon. Watson hears a woman crying at night; it is obvious to him that it was Mrs. Barrymore, but her husband denies it. Watson cannot find any evidence that Barrymore was in Devon on the day of the persecution in London. He meets a brother and sister who live nearby. When his brother is out of earshot, Miss Stapleton confuses Watson with Sir Henry and warns him to leave. She and Sir Henry later meet and fall in love quickly, which awakens Stapleton's anger; He then apologizes and invites Sir Henry to dinner with him a few days later. Barrymore arouses another suspicion when Watson and Sir Henry catch him at night with a candle in an empty room. He refuses to answer his questions, but Mrs. Barrymore confesses that Selden is her brother, and her husband is indicating that they have left supplies. They hear a scream and discover Selden's body, killed by a fall. Initially he was mistaken for Sir Henry, whose old clothes were on. In Baskerville Hall, Holmes notices a resemblance between Stapleton and a portrait of Hugo Baskerville. Then he notes that Stapleton could be an unknown member of the Baskerville family, who sought to reclaim Baskerville's wealth by eliminating his relatives. Holmes and Watson travel to Stapleton's house, where Sir Henry is having dinner. He is rescued from a hound that Stapleton releases while Sir Henry returns home walking down the moor. Shooting the dead animal in the fight, Sherlock reveals that it was a perfectly deadly dog: a mixture of hound and mastiff, painted with phosphorus to give it a hellish appearance. Miss Stapleton is found bound and gagged inside the house, while Stapleton apparently dies in an attempt to reach his hiding place in a nearby mine. They also find Sir Henry's boot, which was used to give the dog the scent of Sir Henry.

The Hound of the Baskervilles

The Hound of the Baskervilles (1901-02) is Arthur Conan Doyle's most celebrated Sherlock Holmes adventure. At the end of the yew tree path of his ancestral home, Sir Charles Baskerville is found dead. Close by are the footprints of a gigantic hound. Called to investigate, Holmes seems to face a supernatural foe. In the tense narration of the detective's efforts to solve the crime, Conan Doyle meditates on late Victorian and early twentieth-century ideas of ancestry and atavism, the possible biological determination of criminals, the stability of the British landed classes, and the place of the supernatural. Historical documents included with this fully-annotated Broadview edition help contextualize the novel's debates and reveal its cultural and literary significance as a supreme instance of early detective fiction. Also included is the Conan Doyle short story "The Adventure of the Speckled Band."

This book contains reproductions of the famous Cottingley photographs, and gives the whole of the evidence in connection with them. The diligent reader is in almost as good a position as I am to form a judgment upon the authenticity of the pictures. This narrative is not a special plea for that authenticity, but is simply a collection of facts the inferences from which may be accepted or rejected as the reader may think fit. I would warn the critic, however, not to be led away by the sophistry that because some professional trickster, apt at the game of deception, can produce a somewhat similar effect, therefore the originals were produced in the same way. There are few realities which cannot be imitated, and the ancient argument that because conjurers on their own prepared plates or stages can produce certain results, therefore similar results obtained by untrained people under natural conditions are also false, is surely discounted by the intelligent public. I would add that this whole subject of the objective existence of a subhuman form of life has nothing to do with the larger and far more vital question of spiritualism. I should be sorry if my arguments in favour of the latter should be in any way weakened by my exposition of this very strange episode, which has really no bearing upon the continued existence of the individual.

found dead on the grounds of his Devonshire estate, Baskerville Hall, and Mortimer now fears for Sir Charles's nephew and sole heir, Sir Henry Baskerville, who is the new master of Baskerville Hall. The death was attributed to a heart attack, but Mortimer is suspicious, because Sir Charles died with an expression of horror on his face, and Mortimer noticed "the footprints of a gigantic hound" nearby. The Baskerville family has supposedly been under a curse since the era of the English Civil War when ancestor Hugo Baskerville allegedly offered his soul to the devil for help in abducting a woman and was reportedly killed by a giant spectral hound. Sir Charles believed in the curse and was apparently fleeing from something in fright when he died. Intrigued, Holmes meets with Sir Henry, newly arrived from Canada. Sir Henry has received an anonymous note, cut and pasted from newsprint, warning him away from the Baskerville moors, and one of his new boots is inexplicably missing from his London hotel room. The Baskerville family is discussed: Sir Charles was the eldest of three brothers; the youngest, black sheep Rodger, is believed to have died childless in South America, while Sir Henry is the only child of the middle brother. Sir Henry plans to move into Baskerville Hall, despite the ominous warning message. Holmes and Dr Watson follow him from Holmes's Baker Street apartment back to his hotel and notice a bearded man following him in a cab; they pursue the man, but he escapes. Mortimer tells them that Mr Barrymore, the butler at Baskerville Hall, has a beard like the one on the stranger. Sir Henry's boot reappears, but an older one vanishes.
