The month must have been like November-December. The sky was clear, the sun had set. We were enjoying the sun with our friends sitting in the college campus itself, today we friends were throwing things here and there, when my attention was fixed near the main gate of the college. Someone was coming, wearing a light blue sweater, a yellow salwar suit and turning her silky hair forward. The light sunlight falling on his face and the red dot of his lilar was blooming wonderfully. When she came near me, my eyes were wide open. Hey! This is Nisha. His name suddenly came out of my mouth. I had proposed Nisha many times but till now no response was received from her. She never refused and never agreed. She just smiled and avoided it. This was the reason why my friend always used to tell me that Nisha also loves you, that's why she doesn't deny you. Seeing her so well-dressed today, I had also decided that today I will keep taking answers from her. Now we had gone to class but as soon as we got a chance in the break, I asked him "Nisha! I want to ask you one thing" "Ask," said Nisha. I was speaking while suppressing my voice that she said while cutting my words, "Okay! Today you will not say anything, I will speak only" On hearing this, my heartbeat started beating loudly. The whole body shook like lightning. But my happiness knew no bounds on hearing that voice. Today was the most beautiful moment of my life, which I was waiting for for many year

My Girl

"Dr. Carnavale? We have him all comfortable now if you'd like to come with me." She looked up, the dazed and bruised expression still there after an hour of fear and confusion, hands clenched tightly on her lap. Linda, the head ICU nurse, had seen her over the years; but she looked smaller now, dignified even in her flounced denim skirt and peasant blouse, her gray shoulder-length hair pinned back with barrettes centered with turquoise stones. She stood carefully. Linda lightly held her arm and guided her down the hall. They turned into the room, and even though she knew what she would see, despair settled on her at the sight of the tubes and monitors. There he lay, his beautiful white hair still thick with waves, his eyelashes surprisingly black. "As the doctor told you, he's comfortable, and nothing will happen until you say so. If you'd like, you could go home until your children arrive," pushing a chair closer for her even as she said it and moving a table closer so she could reach the tissues and ice water. "There's a blanket here, and feel free to lay on the other bed if you like. We'll be right down the hall if you need us." She found his left hand with both of hers and laid her forehead against them. "I'm so sorry, my darling. I know I promised. It's just until the children get here. I didn't want you all stiff and cold when they came. Don't be mad. I love you." Oh how she wished it was a dream, that she'd wake up and hear him, "Baby girl, I'm here. Where are you?" Fifty-five years—how could it be, how could it possibly be—since the day she first saw him.

True Love Story Rescue

For public library clerk Diane Anderson, reading romance novels and living vicariously is far easier than attracting a flesh-and-blood man of her own. It seems she's too voluptuous in the wrong places to attract the kind of black man her mama requires as a son-in-law. . .and just exotic enough to attract the kind of white man Mama forbids. But there's something about that lost-looking guy who comes into the library one afternoon. And when he reveals that Diane is his muse, well, she can't help being intrigued. . . After months spent mourning a personal tragedy, novelist Jack Browning is struggling to get back to work. Under pressure to write his second novel, Jack hits the library for ideas. The clerk who helps him is smart, sassy--and curvy in all the right places. He finds himself thinking of Diane as he creates the heroine of his book. And soon, she's knocking down the wall he'd built around himself, becoming the inspiration for his art. . .and maybe even for his life. . . "Murray writes a gentle romance about cultural differences and deep commonalities in a unique tale about white-black relationships." --Booklist

FAIRY TALE RISING

Everyday we're bombarded with news.. With problems.. With life.. It's hard to escape it, but we find a way to do so anyways.. We try and escape our lives.. And we drown ourselves in the world around us.. We drown ourselves in the news.. In celebrity gossip.. In movies.. Books.. Television.. And music.. We often find ourselves relating to the words of a song.. How the lyrics fit our life story.. How that song was written just for us.. And we drown ourselves in that fantasy world.. We drown in other peoples problems and also our own.. But never think of how to fix them, and finally escape... So for those who never had a father.. Or for those who never had a parent.. For those who got their hearts broken.. For those that sacrificed a great love.. For those who fell hard for the wrong person.. For those trying to deal with and get over a tragic heartbreak.. For those trying to figure themselves out.. For just everyday problems and worries.. Drown like I did in having to deal with them and cope with them.. But at the end of the day learn how to move on from them.. And never look back again.. So for now, drown yourself in your thoughts and mine.. Relate your life to mine.. Your problems and mine.. Worry about them.. Deal with them.. Figure those feelings out.. Figure out how to make things better for yourself.. Let all that anger out.. Let that hate and sadness fall out.. Let those hidden feelings come out.. Drown yourself in all of that for now.. But in the end, get that strength to find your own way to save yourself.. And no longer drown.. And to finally move on, and finally get out...

More Than Two

Embrace That Girl is a love story... with the girl in the mirror. yyyCris has just turned thirty and she's sitting in a self- help seminar inside a drab old hotel outside Miami International Airport. She's looking for answers, some affirmation and maybe a sliver of absolution. And wine. Thirty wasn't supposed to feel like this. Surely, she should be more certain of her place in the world, an established writer, maybe even a mother-she definitely shouldn't be eating cereal for dinner. But Cris is ready to do what it takes to create the life she wants, even if it means repeating affirmations with strangers while 757s thunder overhead. Embrace That Girl retraces Cris' search for meaning, love and gainful employment. She navigates love triangles and career letdowns, feigns bilingualism, and delves into tarot, superstition and Santeria (it's amazing what it takes to date in Miami). Along the way, Cris begins to realize an important lesson: there is no way to get out of doing the work yourself. It's not easy, but it's worth it.
